Edwards	Mrs J H	Oct 28 1898 p5 Mrs. Edwards Dead. A telegram from Chicago Wednesday afternoon told the sad news of the death of Mrs. J. H. Edwards. When Mrs. Edwards left Kalispell a few days before with her husband and mother, her friends almost despaired of ever seeing her again, but they hoped for the best. As the only possibility of saving her life the surgeons pronounced a dangerous surgical operation necessary, but the shock was too great, and she did not rally from it. For a little more than five years Mrs. Edwards lived in Kalispell, and no woman ever had more completely the respect of the community in which she lived, or attracted her associates more closely to her. Her unflinching courtesy, an undefinable charm of manner which she possessed to a rare, almost remarkable, degree, made everyone who met her her admirer and friend. To meet her was to know that you were in the presence of one of nature's noble women, who was just and true by every instinct of her soul. To few, to very few, people are given such lovable souls as nature gave to Mrs. Edwards with a lavish hand. In the hearts of Mrs. Edwards' friends her death brings a sorrow that they can not express by words.

C. O. Ingalls Dead.

DIED: At his home in Kalispell, March 20th, 1898, Clayton O. Ingalls, aged 42 years.

Clayton O. Ingalls was born in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., in 1856, and with his parents came to Iowa in 1860, from which state his father was a volunteer in the war of the rebellion, and fell in battle in 1863. His mother then returned with her children to their native state, where he remained until the age of sixteen when he came west to seek his fortune, and found an old friend of his mother, Geo. E. Frost, who sent him to school, taught him the printer's art, and finally started him in business at Forest City, Iowa. In June, 1879, he was married to Emma A. Backus, and two daughters, Emma and Adellah, were born to them.

In the fall of 1882 he, with James Hamlin, bought the Blue Earth, Minn., Post, and so pleasant and prosperous were their relations with the citizens of that place that only continued ill health induced him to sell his interest in the paper and come to Montana. He located in the Bitter Root valley in 1886, and remained there two years and a half, then coming to the Flathead valley where he established the Inter Lake at Demersville in August, 1889. It recorded the rise and fall of that place, and with the coming of the rail road the paper was removed to Kalispell. In the spring of 1892, having been ill for a long time with la grippe and brain fever, he sold the paper to a stock company, and P. N. Bernard became editor of the paper. Mr. Ingalls was not contented out of newspaper work however, and in 1893 he purchased a controlling interest of the stock in the paper and resumed control, which he retained for two years then selling to the present editor. For the past three years Mr. Ingalls has been getting into shape what will in time be one of the most beautiful homes in the valley.

Mr. Ingalls long residence in the valley and his business gave him an extensive acquaintance throughout the county, and few men were better known. He was a man of strong convictions, and formed strong friendships and in some cases as decided enemies, as men of his stamp do. His many friends in the valley and throughout the county will regret his untimely death, and will extend to the bereaved widow and daughters their kindest sympathy.

The funeral services were conducted in the Episcopal church Monday afternoon by Rev. H. E. Clowes, and Kalispell Lodge Knights of Pythias, of which Mr. Ingalls was a member, attended in a body.

Lyman Loring Dead.

Lyman Loring, one of the best known and most highly esteemed citizens of Flathead county, died at his home early Sunday morning, May 27th. The funeral occurred from the Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon, and was attended by his comrades of the U. S. A. R., and a large number of his former friends and associates.

Mr. Loring had been in poor health for a number of years, but he was able to attend to business affairs until February last, when he began to fail so rapidly as to alarm his family and friends. In spite of every effort to relieve him he failed steadily, until the end came to him quietly and peacefully. He leaves a widow and one son, Charles, and four sisters in Wisconsin, one of the latter being the mother of Edgar W. ("Bill") Nye.

Lyman Loring was born in Maine in 1834, and in 1858 moved to Wisconsin. At the first call for troops he enlisted in the war of the rebellion, and served for four years with the Fourth Wisconsin. After the close of the war, he returned to Wisconsin and engaged in farming. He was married December 22d 1871 to Eugenie Hutchinson, and in 1877 moved to the Red River valley in Minnesota. During his residence in Minnesota he was active and prominent in agricultural matters, and represented his state and district in most of the great agricultural meetings.

Mr. Loring moved to Montana in 1889, and for a short time was in the Bitter Root, coming to the Flathead in 1890. In 1890 he represented Missoula county in the legislature, and was active in the creation of Flathead county. He was appointed one of the commissioners to locate the soldiers home, and at the time of his death was a member of the board controlling the home.

Obituary.

Mrs. Hugh Swaney, whose death was noted last week, was born in the north of Ireland in 1832 of Scotch Irish parents. Her maiden name was Crispell Fularton. She came to Pittsburg, Pa., when she was seventeen years old, and on May 12th, 1859, was married to Mr. Hugh Swaney. They lived at Pittsburg, and vicinity until the spring of 1882, coming to Missoula in that year and remaining there until 1891, when they came to Kalispell.

Mrs. Swaney was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church until she came to Kalispell, when she united with the Presbyterian church.

She was of a quiet, modest disposition and had one of the kindest of hearts. She always prayed that her death might not be sudden, and dreaded the shock to her family and friends. She was conscious until an hour before her death, when she fell asleep and peacefully passed away. Her loss is mourned by her husband and sons and daughters, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Macdonald, Miss Jennie, Andrew, Lawrence, Grant and James. All were present at the time of her death except Andrew and Lawrence.

A true christian, a loving wife and mother, was the beautiful record of her life.
