DEATH OF GUY CONLEY MURDER OR SUICIDE ?

Young Ranchman is Found Dead in His Cabin at Atlanta

HIS FATHER DISCOVERS THE BODY

A Bullet Hole in the Forehead Leads to Suspicion of Foul Play, Though the Disposition of Body Suggests Suicide.
Coroner and Officers Holding Inquest.

Guy Conley, the 23-year-old son of William Conley, was found dead in a cabin on his ranch near Atlanta Tuesday or Wednesday. His father, who had gone from KallsPELL back to the ranch earlier in the week, following the boy who went home Saturday last, was surprised when he reached his son's home not to see tracks about the house in the new fallen snow, as it had been decided that Guy should go to his cabin and stay there until Conley, Sr., arrived. The door was not locked and the elder man walked in, the first glance showing his son sitting in a dejected attitude in a chair. Thinking the boy was sick maybe, Mr. Conley called out some sympathetic word and stopping forward placed his hand upon the boy's head. To his horror the touch and look showed the boy was dead. He remained only long enough to note a jagged bullet hole in the forehead, a fireless stove and a rifle on the boy's knees, when he fled from the house and made post haste to KallsPELL bearing news of the tragedy which he pronounced murder, but giving no details.

To his wife, who is stopping in KallsPELL with the family of L. M. Fox, 412 Fifth avenue west, Mr. Conley first communicated the intelligence of her son's death, and she became prostrated, but was evidently expecting bad news being wrought up by brooding over troubles her husband and son have been having with a landowner in the vicinity, but upon whom it would not be right at this time to cast suspicion.

Mr. Conley then notified the authorities but delayed little in starting again for the cabin where were the remains of his deceased son.

Coroner Taylor, a deputy sheriff, Assistant County Attorney Conrow, and Undertaker Minch, started early yesterday morning for Atlanta, which is 57 miles due west and through about three feet of snow. They may not get back next week, but will investigate the affair and decide upon how death came about. There is no telegraph or other means of communication except a poorly defined wagon road and the officers have strenuous times ahead.

Funeral of Guy Conley.
 The funeral of the unfortunate young man who was found dead at his home near Atlanta last week, will be held from the Presbyterian church, in KallsPELL, Wednesday (tomorrow) afternoon at 2 p. m.
 Guy Conley was born in Osceola, Iowa, May 25, 1882, and came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Conley, to Montana when he was about six years old. Since reaching majority he has been a most industrious young man and has put in many years of hard work and effort in improving the ranches owned by himself and father, near Atlanta. Many miles of ditch and fences have been built by the energetic young man and his father, and the Conley ranches are of the best in the county.
 Guy was known among the neighbors as a model young man; he was always kind and affectionate toward his mother, who thought the world and all of him, and his sudden death was a great blow to her and the father as well.

DEATH BY ACCIDENT CORONER'S VERDICT

Careful and Painstaking Investigation of the Death of Guy Conley

WAS NEITHER MURDER OR SUICIDE

Theory Accepted by the Coroner's Jury is That Gun Slipped From His Hands and Was Discharged as He Sat in a Chair at Home.

Accidental death was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury investigating the facts of Guy Conley's demise.

The inquiry covered two days and was held in the city hall. A number of witnesses were examined including Ed Conley, father of the dead man, M. B. Conrow, B. I. Minch, Charles Davis and J. H. Geiger and Drs. Munro and Bogert.

So far as the evidence was concerned it merely affected the detail, excepting the report of the doctors who held the postmortem examination.

They testified as to the condition of the body, the internal organs indicating exceptionally good health and strong constitution. Their dissection of the head was complete. The course of the bullet was marked by a jagged furrow along the top of the brain but the tissues were barely torn. The skull was cracked into many small pieces, held together by the hooded scalp, which, when lifted allowed the fragments to sag in and down. Some of the upper skull had been torn away by the concussion. The left eye was blackened probably from the burning powder or from the concussion. The autopsy suggested that the skull was blown outward and not crushed in as had been a favorite theory with some.

The jury arrived at their conclusion of accidental death by the following line of more or less plausible reasoning. They did not attempt to fix the time of death, but argued that it certainly was not suicide but must have been accidental. That Guy came in the house with his rifle in hand and was sitting lustily in his chair by the stove, the gun probably clasped with both arms, when he grew drowsy, the loaded weapon slipped from his slackened grasp toward the floor, the hammer struck the wooden seat of the chair between the man's legs and the impact exploded the cartridge, which crashed its way through the unfortunate young man's head and lodged in the ceiling above. If every faculty was paralyzed by the shot in the brain the arms would naturally remain half folded and the head sunk forward as in sleep. The theory is a rather cunning one and may be correct but there are other opinions.

HEART-BREAKING ACT OF POPULAR CITIZEN

Joe Conners Commits Suicide At His Office in the City Hall

DURING THE TERRIBLE STORM

Which Prevented His Going Home, He Probably Decided Upon the Commission of an Act Which Leaves a Heart-Broken Widow and Countless Mourning Friends.

Joe Conner is dead! That startling phrase was repeated this morning in a hundred different tones. Sorrowful, incredulous, astounding; and it was impossible to believe that cheery, good natured Joe Conner, who was a friend to everybody, even the marauding, hungry dogs of the town, had committed suicide.

Miful, but too true, his body was found lying at full length on the floor of his office, the chamber of commerce, in the city hall, at 10 o'clock this morning. A pool of blood and brains almost floated the pallid head, a .38-caliber Colt revolver, one chamber only discharged, lay near him on the floor and his position and everything indicated that with the nervous touch of his finger to the trigger his world ended. The countenance was not convulsed or agonized, the limbs were straight and the body composed.

Two letters were found on the table at his side, one to his wife, the other addressed to the lodge of Elks of which he was a member in high standing and dignity.

Mr. Geo. F. Stannard opened the letter to the Elks. The line was simple, but pathetic. "Boys, forgive me." The coroner took charge of the other letter.

It has transpired that Joe did not get home last night, and by request of his wife Andrew Dunsiro and Mr. Stannard were on the lookout for him. Not being a man addicted to intemperance in drink, or a drinking man at all, it seemed strange that he should not have gone home, and they thought, of course, he had been detained by sickness or something of that nature. It was about 10 o'clock this morning when they opened the door of the chamber of commerce, and there, prone upon the floor, was their dead comrade.

The coroner was at once informed and the family connections of deceased, Mr. H. W. Dickey and Fred Merigold assumed charge of the remains, which, having been viewed by the coroner, were removed to Sherman's undertaking parlors.

Joseph M. Conner was 42 years of age, and has been identified with Kalspell for many years. He had published a newspaper here in early days, was a journalist of experience, and at the time of his death was correspondent for several of the state papers. He was secretary of the chamber of commerce and had been most active in the conduct of that office, having much correspondence relative to the enterprises proposed by the chamber of commerce. He was a member of the Elk lodge, the Woodmen and the Maccabees, carrying insurance in the two last named orders, and was also an Odd Fellow, though not affiliated with the local lodge of that order.

Hon. W. D. Hill, of Ohio, survives him but there are no children.

The elder Conner is a newspaper man of Indianapolis and Joe was to the manner born being a printer and editor.

An inquest was considered unnecessary by the coroner, the facts being plainly apparent.

Arrangements have been made to hold the funeral services at the Episcopal church, Sunday, at 3 o'clock p. m.

A tree had been cut which lodged in the top of a smaller one, and Harper was cutting away the binding strands, when with a crash the top of the smaller tree came down, crushing and killing him. Coroner Taylor was sent for but concluded there was no need for an inquest and sent out the undertaker.

Harper came here about two weeks ago to take his last job but worked in this neighborhood last winter.

He was a man of perhaps 35 years of age, well built and muscular. The body will probably be shipped east tomorrow.

Was At the Throttle Pulling No. 1 Into the Fatal Land Slide.

OVER INTO THE KOOTENAI RIVER

Plunged the Locomotive and Mail Car.—The Engineer Fell to Death. Fireman and Other Forward Men Badly Injured.

Passengers Badly Scared But None Hurt.

Passenger train No. 1, westbound, was wrecked a few miles east of Troy yesterday morning. The engineer was killed, fireman perhaps fatally injured and other trainmen hurt, but passengers were only badly shaken and scared.

Near Troy, as the train was speeding around a curve a land slide was run into before the engineer had a chance to reverse his engine and Owen Jones, who was at the throttle, was almost instantly killed. When they struck the slide the engine and forward cars left the track and tumbled over into the river; the mail car hung to the locomotive and breaking loose from the baggage car plunged into the Kootenai river.

Consternation reigned when the full disaster was recognized. The conductor and his crew succeeded in rescuing the fireman, who was either

Bill Conco or Hossey, and who was very dangerously hurt by the fall to the river. Jones was taken up quite dead. The baggage man and the mail clerk were each severely bruised and shaken. The mail car took fire and burned to the water's edge. Traffic was delayed for a number of hours and the line is only in temporary repair at present.

Owen Jones, the dead engineer, was one of the oldest men on the road and had the reputation of being the fastest runner, holding the record on the mountain. He was a faithful and efficient servant of the railroad company and had many friends. With a wife and family of three girls he used to reside in Kalispell, but exchanged to Hillyard a good while ago. It is uncertain whether Bill Conco or Hossey was firing for him, but it is believed whoever was the fireman he will die.

 Yesterday afternoon Mr. Harry Keith received a telegram from Mrs. Keith of Des Moines, Iowa, that their 6-year-old son, Homer, was dangerously ill, suffering from spinal meningitis, and at 7:45 o'clock another telegram came announcing his death shortly after 8 o'clock.
 The news is a terrible shock to all the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Keith and when the word was circulated it was scarcely credited.
 Mrs. Keith left on Monday with her daughter Louise and Homer, for Des Moines, Iowa, to visit her sister, and for the benefit of little Homer's health. He has been ailing for the past few weeks and it was thought the change would be beneficial.
 Mr. Keith left this morning for the east and it is quite probable that no arrangements will be made for the funeral until he arrives there.
 Mr. and Mrs. Keith have the sympathy of a host of friends in their hour of bereavement.

Large Funeral.
 The funeral of Harry J. Khyler took place Sunday afternoon, and was attended by a large concourse of people. There were dozens of the railroad men and their families from Whitefish, many relatives and connections of the family. The Yeomen and the woman's order turned out in numbers, fully seventy of that society being in the procession. A guard of honor from the militia company of which deceased was a member, preceded the hearse and the pall bearers were detailed from the company. Spanish-American war veterans, and old soldiers filled the marching line for two blocks, and proceeded on their mournful journey with muffled drum and funeral strains. Hacks and carriages filled out the procession which was a very long one.
 The start was made from Willoughby's undertaking parlors, and at the Methodist church a halt was made, the coffin carried in and an impressive church service pronounced, including an address concerning the departed one by Rev. F. H. Buzzell. From the church the procession continued its way to the Conrad Memorial cemetery, where the final exercises and sounding of taps, closed the life incident of Harry Khyler.

17 Jan 1905 p8

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lamberson and family, of Whitefish, were in the city yesterday, the occasion being one of sadness to them as one of the children of the family had died and was brought here for burial.

A very sad accident occurred Monday about 1:30 as Ole Larson, the blacksmith for the O'Brien Lumber company was climbing up to the seat on one of the sawdust carts he slipped and rolled under the cart. His body was doubled up so that the cart had to be backed up before he could be removed. He was carried to his home and Dr. Bogardus was summoned and everything possible was done to relieve him and lessen the pain. Drs. Bottorf and Macdonald of Kalspell then arrived and a thorough examination was held and it was found that the skull had been fractured and two ribs broken, which had pierced the lung. There was no hope of saving him and at 4 o'clock he expired. Mr. Larson was born in Norway and was 46 years of age. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his death. He was a steady worker and was liked by everyone who knew him. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the whole community in this, their hour of sorrow. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, and was in charge of the M. W. A. of which Mr. Larson was a member. The interment took place at the Conrad Memorial cemetery near Kalspell and Rev. Evans officiated. Somers, July 20, 1905.

Florence E. Madison.

The passing away of Miss Florence E. Madison on Tuesday evening was not wholly unexpected by her friends. She has been ill about three months and has been a patient sufferer for several years. Few people knew it for she was always bright and cheerful. Her amiable qualities were many; she was thoughtful and generous, kind and unselfish, every one was her friend, and children were particularly fond of her.

Miss Madison was born in Menasha, Wisconsin, near Green Bay, and came to Kallispell in the autumn of 1893. When the library was organized she accepted the position as librarian where she has worked faithfully until her illness compelled her to cease, shortly after the holidays. She was a valued member of the Century club.

Miss Madison is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frank L. Gray, with whom she lived.

The ultimate cause of her death was tuberculosis although her sufferings the past few years have been caused by rheumatism.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of Frank L. Gray, Fifth avenue east, and the interment was in the Conrad Memorial cemetery.

The floral offerings were numerous and very beautiful, many set-pieces, shower bouquets, sprays and garlands of flowers were sent by friends. The school children brought in their touching tributes to the house in the shape of floral offerings, showing the esteem in which the departed lady was held. Rev. H. E. Clowes officiated at the funeral.

Death of Mrs Marantette.

Mrs. C. H. Marantette died at her home in Ashley, Monday morning, after a long and lingering illness. Although her death was monerarily expected it came as a shock to her family and friends. Besides a husband she leaves four children to mourn her untimely death. The funeral took place from the Catholic church and interment was in the Conrad Memorial cemetery, Wednesday morning. There was a large attendance of sorrowing friends. The flowers were abundant and beautiful.

Mr. L. E. Marvin, who was ill for some time at the Gaylord, died Friday morning, Feb. 17, of Bright's disease. Mr. Marvin had been in very poor health for some time and had come west from St. Paul to Fort Assiniboine and thence to Columbia Falls, hoping that the change of climate might prove beneficial. Before his last illness Mr. Marvin, in company with his wife spent several months in the region of Coram. A brother-in-law of the deceased arrived from the east Sunday morning. The remains were taken to St. Paul for interment.

WAS FROM KALISPELL

Goes Insane, Jumps From Train and and Hangs Himself.

St. Paul, Dec. 6.—While on his way back to Norway, Ascar Martinson of Kalispell, Mont., jumped from the fast moving Wisconsin Central train, north of Stillwater, Minn., this morning. When Charles Helander, a farmer, went into his woodshed he was confronted by the body of a man hanging from the ceiling, which later proved to be the remains of Martinson. He was on his way back to his old home with his partner, Hans Thorson, and without attempting to open the window, he sprang from his seat in the coach and smashed both the inner and outer panes and jumped to what was thought sure death. The railroad officials searched diligently, but with no avail. When the body was found this morning there were many scratches as the result, it is supposed, of his having crawled through fences. His collar was completely torn off. Martinson had first attempted to end his life with his suspender, but this broke, and he used a small piece of rope that was in the shed. He tied the rope to the ceiling and stood on the ground, deliberately strangling himself to death.

DIED FROM INJURIES RECEIVED. Matthew McCormick Died at Crookston as Result of Injuries. The death of Matthew McCormick occurred at the Sisters' hospital in Crookston, Minn., last Sunday, the sad news being received by his relatives in Kallapell, Tuesday. Death resulted from injuries received by Mr. McCormick in a runaway accident some months ago at Crookston, and for which his lawyer had brought suit for $5000 damages against the Crookston corporation charged with responsibility for the accident. The resultant death of the injured man may have considerable bearing on the case and it is probable Attorney Conrow of this city, who married one of the heirs at law, Miss Maud McCormick, will go to Crookston to represent the family in a settlement of the case. Mrs. Mary McCormick of this city is the surviving wife of Matthew McCormick, from whom she has been legally separated for a number of years, but the children had always kept up correspondence with him and are his legatees. The remains were buried at Crookston, none of the relatives being present at the funeral on account of the tardiness of the notification.

Miller Chloe 24 Feb 1905 p5

THE LITTLE ONE DIED. Chloe Miller Suffered Three Months From Agonizing Burns. On February 20, Little Chloe Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Miller, died at the age of six years and six months. Funeral services were held at Demeraville church at 11 o'clock Wednesday forenoon, February 22, Rev. F. L. Buzzell officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the Demeraville cemetery. Chloe finally succumbed to the serious afflictions of a terrible burn, brought about by her clothing catching fire while playing near a burning stump over three months ago, and from that time until death she was a constant sufferer, but bore it bravely. She leaves a father and mother, brothers and sisters, and many relatives and friends to mourn her. A precious one from us is gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled. We loved her, yes we loved her, But the angels loved her more, And they have sweetly called her To yonder shining shore.

ACCIDENT WAS FATAL.

John C. Murphy Bleeds to Death From Gunshot Wound.

By the accidental discharge of a shotgun he was carelessly handling, John C. Murphy inflicted wounds upon himself, at Sedan lake, last Sunday which resulted in his bleeding to death within the hour. Murphy and Kiley had started out for a hunt that day, and were on the lake shore about to get into a boat, when Kiley thought of something he had left in the cabin, and telling Murphy to wait a few moments retraced his steps up the trail. In a very few minutes he heard a shot, and hurrying back to where he had left his companion, saw him leaning over and apparently hurt. He inquired "what's the matter, have you shot yourself?" and Murphy answered that he guessed he had. He did not think he was very badly hurt, however, but Kiley saw he was fainting from loss of blood, and assisting him to the higher ground hurried him to the settlement for assistance and sent a messenger to Kallapell for a surgeon. The whole charge of shot entered the unfortunate man's body under the right arm and severed a large artery, the man bleeding rapidly to death, but stoppage of the blood was absolutely impossible, the artery being shot away so that there was no possibility of taking it up without cutting in to the man's heart. Dr. Munro arrived too late, of course, but stated that no one could have been of any use.

Dr. Taylor, the coroner, went up to Sedan Monday morning, taking a stenographer, Miss Morrison, with him, and investigated the tragedy.

John C. Murphy was about 45 years of age and had been working at the Kiley mill, principally in the capacity of a teamster for the past three years. He was a man of good habits and was well thought of in the neighborhood. He has no relatives in this state, but his mother and a sister are believed to reside in the east somewhere. The body will be held at Kallapell for a short time pending other instructions, and then buried.

No particulars are known in this office. Mr. Portugal was one of the old timers of the camp and has a large number of friends who will sincerely regret to learn of his death."

No information can be gleaned regarding the man's antecedents, whether he is married or where his relatives live, even his first name could not be learned. His body was taken to Willoughby's undertaking rooms, and will remain there until the arrangements are made for his funeral.

DIED AT DAYTON.

The Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Proctor.

On Thursday, October 19, little Gladys Mabel, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Proctor of Dayton, passed away from a complication of influenza, whooping cough which developed into bronchial pneumonia. The little one was six months old.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Snow of Dayview and were attended by a large number of friends who sympathize deeply with the parents. The interment took place on the home ranch.

A message from Mrs. John Quann at Los Angeles, Cal., brought the sad news of the death of Mr. Quann at that point this morning. No particulars were given. Mr. Quann was an old-timer in the valley and one of the county's most respected citizens. It is probable that the body will be brought to KallsPELL for interment.

MR. QUANN'S DEATH.
Funeral Will Take Place Tomorrow From Catholic Church.
 A telegram received today by the Bee, from Mrs. Quann, at Ashland, Oregon, contains information that the body of Mr. Quann will reach here tonight and the funeral will take place from the Catholic church at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow, Wednesday.
 Mr. Quann left here for Los Angeles about a month ago, and was not considered in bad health, although he was considerably run down. The news of his illness, the call of his wife to his bedside and his subsequent demise, was a shock to his many friends. Mr. Quann was about 58 years of age and his life had been a busy one. In the early days of Flathead county he came here from Butte and settled on a ranch near Demersville and has since resided there, a progressive and prosperous farmer. He leaves two sons, nearly grown, and a daughter, the wife of P. M. Kelly of Missoula. One of Mr. Quann's sons was drowned in the Flathead last spring under peculiarly distressing circumstances, and it was a great grief to the family.

The funeral of John Quann was attended by a large concourse of friends and neighbors, Sunday, many of whom joined the funeral train at the residence near Demersville and participated in the services at the church, then at the grave.

Funeral Sunday.
 The body of the late John Quann, who died in Los Angeles last Friday, reached KallsPELL Wednesday night. Thursday morning Mr. Sherman transferred the remains to the Quann home near Demersville and preparations for the funeral were delayed pending the arrival of the oldest son J. F. Quann, then in Seattle. This morning a telegram was received stating that young Mr. Quann would reach KallsPELL Saturday morning. The funeral will take place Sunday, the cortege leaving the Quann residence at 1:30 p. m., services being held at the Catholic church in KallsPELL at 3 p. m. Interment will be at the Conrad Memorial Cemetery.

Miss Kate Radel, the 18-year-old daughter of C. Radel, died at the hospital yesterday, where she had been for seven weeks under treatment for dropsy. The parents live near Echo. Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church in KallsPELL, Wednesday afternoon, and interment took place at the Conrad cemetery.

H. G. REDMOND A SUICIDE

Millwright Kills Himself by Sending Bullet Through Head.

THRUSTS GUN BARREL IN EAR

Pulls Trigger and His Life Was Over. Came Home Friday Evening and Without a Word to His Wife Passed Into Bedroom and Did the Deed.

H. G. Redmond committed suicide at his home on the north side of town at 6 p. m. Friday evening, June 2, by shooting himself through the brain from the left ear, with a 35-caliber revolver. Mr. Redmond came through the kitchen where his wife was washing dishes, went into a bedroom and in an instant she heard the report of a revolver and heard him fall. She ran to the door, called in a near neighbor, and going to the room found her husband lying dead. Mr. Redmond had been drinking in the afternoon and had lost his job at a sawmill.

The body of Redmond was taken at once to the morgue and an examination made, which made it necessary for the coroner to hold an inquest. The man's head was not powder burned and suspicion was at first excited, but a post mortem showed that he had thrust the barrel of the revolver into his ear, so that no powder escaped on the outside. It is said that Redmond is afflicted with suicidal mania when he was under the influence of liquor and had several times threatened to take his own life. He is said to have killed a man in Wisconsin, during a brawl, and that remorse for the accident often overtook him and had been weighing upon him for years.

Mr. Redmond was 37 years, 10 months and 23 days old. He had worked at the sawmill business for the last 15 years. He was united in marriage to Miss Carrie Briggs of Roseburg, Wisconsin in 1895, came to Kallspoll last July along with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Briggs. Mr. Redmond leaves a wife and two children and also a father and mother and two brothers and one sister at Neillsville, Wisconsin. Mr. Redmond belonged to the M. W. A. lodge for about 8 years.

The funeral took place at the M. E. church on Sunday at 2 p. m., and the remains were laid to rest in the Conrad Memorial cemetery.

He leaves a wife residing in that city; and a mother, two brothers and four sisters, all residing in Cork, Ireland.

Mrs. Mary Seator, 62 years old, mother of Mrs. Peterman, died Sunday evening at the Peterman ranch on the Whitefish road. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 2 p. m., interment being made at the Pine Grove cemetery.

Mr. Shepperd was nearly 70 years of age and had been a resident of Flathead county for about eighteen years, his former home being at Domesville. He was the first justice of the peace in Flathead county and was well known throughout the valley. For the past two years he was an inmate of the soldiers' home at Columbia Falls. He will be greatly missed by his old comrades and friends.

WAS FOUND HANGING IN HIS CABIN LOFT

Anton Stadler Disappears for a Few Days and Search Instituted

A CAREFUL, DELIBERATE SUICIDE

A New Rope, Correctly Knotted Back of the Ear Performed
Its Work Well.—Limited Space From Roof to Rafters
Caused Him to Double Up.

Despondency's cold grip seized upon Anton Stadler, Sunday last and melancholia numbers another victim.

Anton Stadler lived in a neat cabin built on the rear of the lot where L. A. Moon's residence stands. Stadler owned both places. He had been living alone in his cabin for a number of years, and often prepared his own meals.

On Monday, Mr. Moon and Gus Brinkman becoming alarmed over the non-appearance of Stadler at his accustomed haunts, and seeing no fire had been lighted in his cabin during the day began investigating. The last place he had been seen was at the Brewery saloon about Sunday noon, when he bought a slice of cheese from Jim Jorgensen and then said he was going home to stay. Brinkman and Moon and Fluk then went to Stadler's house, opened the door and walked in; all was cold and deserted looking. The cover was off the man-hole leading to the unfinished attic, and Brinkman said he would go up there and see if the old man was hiding, playing a joke on them. He crawled up through the small opening, and there, sure enough, found Stadler, and thought he was crouching down to avoid discovery. Gus called out "here he is" and reached out to take him by the arm, and touched a corpse. He called to his companions and they viewed the body of their old friend, stark and stiff in death, and frozen rigid.

A rope had been deftly knotted about the neck, and the standing space not being sufficient, the suicide had drawn his legs up and was swinging between the rafters. He could have stood up and preserved his life at any time before strangulation.

The authorities were notified Monday night of the finding of the body, and the coroner immediately took charge. An inquest was held this afternoon.

Anton Stadler was one of the old-timers of Kalspell, having been here for fourteen years, and he was reputedly "well fixed" in this world's goods, having several houses and lots, a ranch near Melbourne and money out at interest. He was a bachelor, probably 55 years of age, and a very companionable man, quiet, inoffensive and unassuming. During the past six months he had taken a very gloomy view of the conditions in Kalspell, where much of his money was invested, and seemed to think that he was going to lose everything, although his friends had rallied him considerably upon his want of faith in the town.

He has a brother in Helena, Louis Stadler, in good circumstances, who has been notified of the tragedy, and will probably reach here tomorrow. There was no letter or note of explanation so far as could be discovered.

Funeral of Anton Stadler.

Owing to the heavy storm which prevailed the attendance at the funeral of Anton Stadler was limited to personal friends and relatives of the deceased. Interment took place at the Conrad Memorial cemetery.

Louis Stadler, brother of the deceased, was unable to ascribe any cause for the suicide. He said his brother had no financial troubles; he had plenty to live on and could have always had help from his relatives if he needed it.

Rev. Geo. McVey Fisher conducted the funeral services and spoke feelingly of the mistaken troubles which led a man to self-destruction.

Wilson Billy 13 Jan 1905 p1 20 Jan 1905 p4 20 Jan 1905 p8

THE DEATH ROLL.
Four Names Added to the Mortality Records This Week.
Abraham Potts, the man who was brought to Kalispell last Tuesday from Big Sandy, Mont., for treatment at the hospital, died there within two hour of his reception. In his weakened condition the railroad journey was too much for him, and he had no opportunity of recovery. Undertaker Sherman shipped the remains to Clintonville, Wis.
Ed Strey, the mill man who was so badly injured in the planer at Lakeview, Sunday, died last night. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.
G. H. Damary, 83 years of age, died at the home of his son-in-law, Peterson, in the lower valley, this week, and was buried at Bethel cemetery by Undertaker Sherman.
A man by the name of Wilson was seriously injured at Anderson's camp about fifteen miles from Columbia Falls up the Stillwater. The nature of the injury was a scalp wound which affected him in such a manner that his limbs became paralyzed. He was tenderly but hastily conveyed to the train and brought to the Kalispell hospital for treatment, but lived only a short time. No information can be gleaned regarding the man's antecedents, whether he is married or where his relatives live, even his first name could not be learned. His body was taken to Willoughby's undertaking rooms, and will remain there until the arrangements are made for his funeral.

A very sad accident happened last week at Anderson's logging camp on the Stillwater, by which one of their teamsters, Billy Wilson, met his death. He slipped from the load and was partly run over and was found unconscious. He died at the Kalispell hospital a few days ago.

Wilson is Buried.
The remains of Billy Wilson, a teamster killed last week at Anderson's camp, were held until Wednesday under the impression that relatives somewhere would want them, but there were no claimants for the body and the undertaker finally put it away. An inquiry from Helena was received, but there was no identification, the Billy they wanted being short and dark, while this man was tall and light.
