ADMITTED AS CITIZENS

An Even Dozen of New Voters Were Created Yesterday

Of the seventeen applicants for citizenship to the United States, twelve were admitted yesterday, one case, that of Frank Boucher, was dismissed for lack of prosecution, and four failed to appear. The game is closed so far as Boucher is concerned, and if he wants to help decide whether the democrats, republicans, bull moosers or socialists shall be in control in 1916, he will have to begin proceedings all over again.

Those admitted were: Charles Meredith King, Mark Jensen, John Henrik Lampe, Alexander Dalquith Pauline, Stephen McKeown, August Hocksheld, Otto Miller, Morten Mortenson, Richard Robert, Victor Olson, Ole Haagen-son and Martin Olson Bjorge.
