Woman Loses Life In Flathead River

Mrs. Evans Is Victim of Sad Accident Above
Bad Rock Canyon--Body Recovered
After Long Search

The Flathead river claimed another victim Sunday, when Mrs. Evans, known here as Bernice Ellsworth, was drowned in Bad Rock canyon.

Mrs. Evans went to the canyon Sunday morning as a member of a party of four, to spend the day fishing. She was standing on a rock with B. P. Drollinger, who took the party in his car, watching him fish. Mr. Drollinger did not have any luck and decided to quit, handing the pole to Mrs. Evans.

As he was leaving he cautioned the woman to be careful as the place was very dangerous. Mrs. Evans continued to fish for a short time, when she became tired of it and decided to quit. She turned to leave and was caught by a sudden gust of wind which unbalanced her and she slipped and fell.

Apparently the cold water affected her heart as she gave up her attempt to swim within a few minutes after she fell into the river.

Mr. Drollinger jumped into his car and went up the river in search of a boat while the other members of the party ran down stream. The accident happened about six miles above the canyon and when the body was next seen it was a short distance above the Burns place at the lower end of the canyon.

There was a party of Kalispell people fishing here and they observed the body floating down stream, but could not make out what it was until it came within a few yards of them, owing to a strong wind rippling the surface of the stream.

An attempt was made to bring the body ashore by casting at the clothing with a fly hook, but it was not successful. The body was caught in a small eddy here for a few seconds and then was again caught by the current.

The man who attempted to stop the body ran for his car and raced up the canyon to find a man with a boat who left him but a few minutes before. Luckily he stopped at the spot where the man was fishing and within a few minutes he had secured another man to assist him and raced down the river to overtake the body of the woman.

A telephone message was sent to Columbia Falls about the accident and a crowd of people awaited along the shores to watch for the body, when the boat came in sight with the woman in it.

The men who rescued the body landed with it before going on down to Columbia Falls and attempted to resuscitate the woman, but without result. They stated that only a small quantity of water came from the lungs, indicating that the icy water had affected the woman's heart.

At Columbia Falls a doctor examined the corpse. He declared that the woman had been dead some time and it would be useless to attempt resuscitation. Coroner Waggener was summoned and took charge of the body.

From the time the Kalispell party saw the body floating down stream, until the boat landed at Columbia Falls, was just 30 minutes; all haste possible being made to get the body from the water and render aid.

Before coming to Kalispell, the deceased was employed in Spokane as a stenographer for a prominent attorney.

Relatives in San Francisco, Phoenix, Ariz., and Idaho, were notified and will arrive shortly to take charge of the body. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

KEPT HIS OATH BUT DIED TO PROVE IT

(From Butte Post)

William Fumelle, 35 years old, in jail for drunkenness, refused a glass of whiskey at 1:30 o'clock today, drank a glass of water instead, and dropped dead. Coroner Lane was called and pronounced death due to alcoholism.

"I'm through with whiskey, and as God is my witness I'll never touch another drop as long as I live," declared Fumelle, as Jailer Barney Lavelle offered the man a glass of liquor to quiet his nerves.

The jailer walked from the cell to his office, when he was called back again by the other prisoners. When he reached Fumelle's side life had already expired.

Fumelle was arrested Sunday afternoon on Front street. He was badly intoxicated and Sunday night he had an attack of delirium tremens.

This morning the prisoner was unable to go into court. Towards noon he suffered from another attack and the jailer, hoping to quiet the man's nerves, brought in a glass of liquor.

His statement that he would never touch liquor again as long as he lived was the truth. His resolution lasted but five minutes.

Fumelle was an ironworker. He belonged to a fraternal organization which will take charge of the body.

BODY OF P. J. GILROY FOUND IN RIVER

MISSING SINCE DECEMBER—WAS PROMINENT IN SILVER BOW POLITICS.

The mystery of the death of P. J. Gilroy, who was drowned in the Pend O'Reille river at Polson, in December last, was solved yesterday morning when two small boys who were fishing discovered the body at a point not more than half a mile below where Gilroy committed suicide.

Gilroy was well known in Granite and Silver Bow counties, having been county clerk and recorder of the latter county a number of years. He met with financial reverses, and took up a homestead on the reservation at the time of the opening. As soon as he had proved up he went into the government service as a forester. In this, it is said, he was not entirely successful, and this, together with creditors pressing him hard, lead to his rash act. In any event, he came to Polson one evening in December last, put up his horse, registered at the hotel and paid for his room. Soon after he was missed, and he was tracked to the river in a light snow which had fallen. His hat and coat were upon the bank, and the tracks led into the water at a point near Keeler's ranch, one mile below the bridge. Shortly after, a Missoula man, who knew him well, reported that he saw Gilroy on the bridge in that city soon after his suicide was reported, and many other reports gained currency that he had been seen in different parts of the country, and many were of the belief that the suicide was a fake, and that he had merely taken this means of evading his creditors. Just below the bridge the river makes a sharp turn and there is a deep eddy, and those who are familiar with that section believe that the body lodged in the eddy. Gilroy was a large man, and it is reported at the sheriff's office that the body had become so badly swollen that it weighed 400 pounds when found. Coroner Waggener was at once notified and went to Polson. He has not yet returned, and it is not known whether or not he deemed it necessary to hold an inquest, or what arrangements for burial have been made.

JOSEPH INGRAHAM LOSES LIFE IN RIVER

COAT FREEZES TO ICE AND PREVENTS ESCAPE—BODY FALLS BACK IN WATER.

Partially submerged in the water of the Flathead river, but with his coat frozen to the ice so that it was impossible for him to escape, Joseph Ingraham, a former railroad man in St. Paul, and long a resident of Flathead county, slowly perished last night.

Ingraham was in the city Wednesday, and it is stated started to walk to Bigfork. At Holt ferry the river is frozen over and he attempted to cross on the ice. As it was dark, he stepped off into the channel made by the ferry boat, and he broke through the thin ice. He managed to get hold of the solid ice and crawled part way out, but his clothing was wet and his coat quickly froze fast and he was held a prisoner until he became chilled and froze to death.

At least this is the theory of Sheriff Metcalf, who was called to the scene at eight o'clock this morning by a telephone message from Herb Becker. When he arrived there was ample evidence of what had happened. After death occurred Ingraham had released his hold on the ice, and his head and feet were in the water, but his coat was frozen fast and prevented the body from floating away. He was seen at the postoffice at Holt and also by J. L. Caton, the ferryman, early in the evening, and it was supposed he had continued on his way. His body was discovered in the morning by Mr. Caton.

Coroner Waggener was notified, but an inquest was not deemed necessary.

The deceased has lived at Polson most of the time since coming up Montana. He is no relation to former Sheriff Ingraham.

KILLS SELF AFTER ATTEMPT ON WIFE

HERMAN JURGENS TAKES OWN LIFE AFTER EMPTYING REVOL-VER AT DEFENSELESS WIFE.

Herman Jurgens 35 years old shot and killed himself at the home of Fred Whiteside, Saturday afternoon after seriously wounding his wife. He was a brother of Mrs. Whiteside and Mrs. A. N. Tobie and had recently been working in the Glacier park. He came to Kalispell on Thursday and was drinking more or less up to the time of the tragedy. Going to the Whiteside home Saturday afternoon he found no one at home but the womenfolks and children. After a moment of conversation with his wife he seized her and began shooting with a 38 caliber revolver. The first shot struck Mrs. Jurgens near the left eye and came out of the right corner of the mouth. She succeeded in breaking away from him and ran out of the house. He followed and continued firing until the gun was empty. Mrs. Jurgens fell to the ground a hundred yards from the house and thinking he had killed her, Jurgens reloaded his revolver and going into the barn shot himself in the head. Mrs. Jurgens also received a flesh wound in the right arm and two flesh wounds in the right side, but these are not considered serious. Dr. Wiley, Dr. Lamb and Dr. Little were called to attend Mrs. Jurgens and she was removed to the Kalispell hospital. She is a young woman of strong physique and has a fair chance of recovery, although the wound in the head is a very serious one. She has one little girl three years old.

The body of the suicide was buried from the Waggener undertaking establishment on Sunday afternoon, the funeral being private. Mrs. J. Anderson of Helena, a sister of Mrs. Jurgens arrived in Kalispell yesterday and another sister, Mrs. Freda Winquist, is on the way from Chicago.
