Magda Iverson, 95

Mrs. Magda Iverson, 95, Lakeside, died Thursday at the Bigfork Convalescent Center where she lived for the past two years. She was born May 16, 1886, in Hungary.

After attending convent, she trained and worked as a governess in Vienna, Austria. When she was 22, she came to the United States and lived in Ohio and Michigan. Because there were no openings for a governess, she worked as an upstairs maid and cook for various wealthy families. During World War I, she became a member of the American Ironworkers Union when she worked as a molder in a factory in Cleveland, Ohio, making airplane parts.

She married Charles Iverson in 1928 in Cleveland. They moved to Kalispell and Iverson worked on road construction in Glacier National Park. They later moved to Alaska, and to Portland, Ore., during World War II.

In 1945, they returned to Kalispell for a short time before moving to Lakeside. In 1948, the couple opened a restaurant in Lakeside, known as "Magda's Cookie Jar," which they operated until 1960. Because of the many requests for her recipes, Mrs. Iverson published a cookbook, "Magda's Kitchen Korner." A second edition of the book was published in 1980, with proceeds donated to the Magda Iverson Scholarship Fund from which two scholarships were awarded.

A third printing of the book is being considered. Mrs. Iverson was a Catholic.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Charles, on Dec. 4, 1975, and is survived by several nieces and nephews in Ohio, including Ernest and Lottie Wittinger and Bill and Carol Horvath, and a grand nephew, Lester Wittinger. Several other relatives live in Hungary.
